WAITING FOR SPRING...

UNSEASONABLY COLD...early spring weather this week lent an even chillier touch to the area of the historic St. James of the Sag Cemetery, with its tombstones, church spire and bare tree branches casting stark shadows against the not quiet gray, not quite blue skies. The first buds of crocuses and tulips among the gravestones, however, heralded the rebirth of nature and a goodbye salute to Jack Frost until another season. (Photo by Richard Young)
